German Vessels Will Not Tolerate Any Interference Outside of Three-Mile Limit—To Convey All German Merchant Ships in Threatened Zone—Not To Touch Any Spanish
Ports During Their Voyages.

By Pierre J. Huss
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Germany, Aug. 20—German warships in Spanish waters were ordered to "clear decks for action" and resort to armed force today in the event of any repetition of the incident in which the merchant liner Kamerun was halted and searched while en route to Cadiz to pick up refugees.

Any interference with the free passage of German vessels outside the three-mile limit, it was pointed out, will inevitably lead to stern retaliatory action.

The orders were dispatched following an emergency conference between Chancellor Hitler and his military and naval aides.

German warships now in Spanish waters were instructed to convey all German merchant ships in the threatened zone. All merchant shipping lines were instructed to tell their commanders not to touch any Spanish port or take on any passengers, only if ordered to take off refugees.

In general, the orders mean German warships will tolerate no interference with German shipping on the high seas. This drastic action was taken on the contention that the Madrid leftist regime is no longer capable of controlling its own forces, and that irresponsible crews are alleged to have taken action.

BERLIN, Germany, Aug. 20—An ultimatum to Spanish warships to keep their hands off German merchantmen was wirelessed to the Spanish merchant commanders at Bolaric waters today.

Rear Admiral Carls, commanding the German pocket battleship Deutschland, sent the stern ultimatum as he received orders from Berlin to protect German shipping at all costs.

Carls' warning concluded with the words: "Force will be met with force."

Bucks Countians Make Tour of Dairies in N. J.

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 20—Forty-nine cars, carrying 192 people, composed the Bucks County Dairy Tour, which began at Washington Crossing Park on Tuesday and included two stops in New Jersey, one at the experimental station and the other at the Walker-Gordon Farms.

The tour was under the direction of County Agent William F. Greenawalt and was one of the most successful ever staged.

The first stop was at New Brunswick, N. J., where the caravan remained for more than two hours as the guests of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station. At this place the Bucks countians visited the poultry plant and dairy and saw the pasture experiments.

Stables of horses were also inspected by the dairymen and their friends. A basket lunch was enjoyed in the picnic grove on the campus of the college at noon.

With members of the New Jersey State Highway Patrol serving as an escort, the caravan proceeded to Plainsboro, N. J., where they visited the Walker-Gordon Farms, Inc., and saw all breeds of dairy cows, the world famous rotolactor and alfalfa drier.

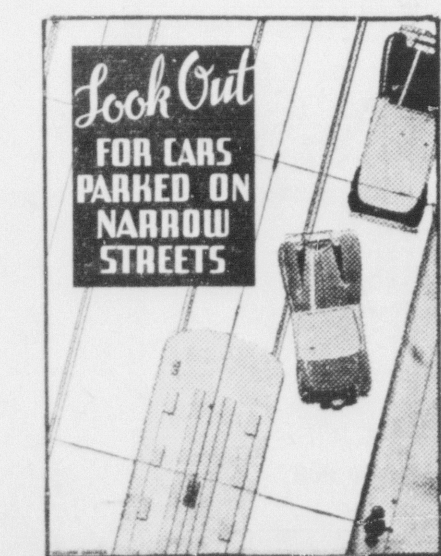

Of special interest to the Bucks countians was the fact that the cows are privately owned by various individuals and one string of cows in the Brown Swiss stables is owned by Paul Bennett, of Langhorne.

Thirteen hundred cows are being milked three times a day in the rotolactor, which is the only one of its kind in the world.

County Agent Greenawalt stated that at New Brunswick the group was in charge of E. A. Gaunt, dairy extension specialist.

INVITE FOUR FORMER GOVERNORS TO BE SPECIAL GUESTS WHEN LANDON MAKES INITIAL CAMPAIGN SPEECH AT MIDDLESEX

HARRISBURG, Aug. 20—Four former Governors of Pennsylvania have been invited by M. Harvey Taylor, chairman of the Republican State Committee, to be special guests of that body Saturday afternoon when Governor Alf M. Landon, G. O. P. Presidential nominee, makes his initial campaign speech in the east at West Middlesex, his Pennsylvania birthplace. They are John K. Tener, Edwin S. Stuart, John S. Fisher and Gifford Pinchot. The distinguished guests will occupy seats on the platform with prominent Republicans and other members of Governor Landon's entourage.

Advices from Estes Park, Colorado, where Governor Landon is resting prior to his invasion of the east, indicate that his initial speech of the tour at West Middlesex will be on the general topic of Americanism, the subject being suggested by the fact that it was from there that the Governor's father and mother journeyed West to seek better opportunities.

In his eastbound trip Governor Landon will approach Pennsylvania soil through Ohio where he arrives at 7 a. m., Saturday, Eastern Standard Time, at Lima. Journeying toward his birthplace on that day he will pass through the following points in Ohio: Ada, Bucyrus, Crestline, Mansfield, Canton and thence to West Middlesex where he is scheduled to arrive at 1:30 on Saturday afternoon. After a brief rest and a meeting with relatives and old time friends the presidential candidate will go direct to the specially constructed stand on the Tam O'Shanter golf course where he is scheduled to begin his speech at 3 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

According to plans Governor Landon will go to New Castle, Lawrence County after the meeting to meet more old time Pennsylvania friends and to rest. In the evening (Saturday) the Republican Executive Committee of Lawrence County will be host to the distinguished visitor at a dinner.

Sunday, August 23, will be a day of real rest for Governor Landon. He has requested that all activities cease, both political and social, in order that he may spend the time as he pleases and rest preparatory to his appearances at Chautauqua, N. Y., on Monday night and at Buffalo on Wednesday night.

Sunday morning the Governor will motor from New Castle and attend services in the West Middlesex M. E. Church. In the afternoon he will motor to Greenville for a visit with old friends in that vicinity.

Governor Landon will terminate his Pennsylvania visit on Monday morning leaving New Castle at 9:25 a. m. Enroute to Erie, Pa., he will stop briefly at Sharon, Greenville and Conneautville. He will be in Erie only long enough to permit his special car to be shifted to the New York Central Railroad for the journey into New York State.

Breaking into his regular schedule Governor Landon yesterday directed that time be provided during his visit to West Middlesex for a reunion with four elderly women who knew him when he was a baby. Mrs. A. A. Young, of West Middlesex, is in charge of the meeting with the presidential candidate.

The four elderly women whom she has invited to her home are: Mrs. Mary Reed Baird, of West Middlesex, now 85 years old, and known as "Auntie" Baird, who was nurse to the infant Landon; Mrs. Mollie Jennings, of Pulaski, Pa., who, according to Mrs. Young, made the Kansas Governor's "baby clothes, even the little shirts"; Mrs. Harry White, of Sharon, Pa., who cared for the Governor when at the age of two his mother brought him with her on a visit to West Middlesex, and Mrs. Wash Dunham, of Sharon, Pa., who helped Mrs. White to care for the baby on that occasion and who is credited by Mrs. Young with having given Governor Landon chicken pox.

DOYLESTOWN TO APPLY FOR MORE WPA FUNDS

Money to Be Used for Building Pavements, Gutters and Sidewalks

TO IMPROVE STREETS

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 20—A decision was reached in a two-hour session of Doylestown Borough Council to make application for additional WPA funds for the purpose of building additional pavements, gutters and sidewalks in the town.

Residents of the Borough who are interested in the project have been urged to get in touch with the chairman of the street committee, Councilman G. Thawley Hayman. The new work will be done at approximately 50 cents per running foot.

According to a report of Councilman Hayman, the WPA gutter-sidewalk-pavement project has already started on West Oakland avenue and West Court street.

The street committee report also indicated that Franklin street, between State and Ashland streets, will be rebuilt and that a ditch along this street will be eliminated, thus making a 32-foot street.

Streets in the western end of the Borough, including Jefferson, and also East Court street in front of the Doylestown Fair Grounds, are on the schedule for repairs. The improvement on East Court street, which leads to Swamp Road, will be made by the borough and Doylestown township, and it is believed that this rough section will be completed before fair week.

CADETS EN ROUTE TO WIN 5TH CHAMPIONSHIP

Group Leaves This Morning
In Two Buses For Johnstown

OUT FOR BIG TROPHY

In an attempt to secure for the fifth consecutive year the much-coveted cup symbolizing championship of the state American Legion Junior drum and bugle corps, the American Legion Cadets of Robert W. Bracken Post left this morning for Johnstown.

Two buses were commandeered for the large group of Cadets who in 1932-33-34-35 were adjudged champions of the state junior corps, and who have high hopes of returning to Bristol with the trophy again this year.

Leaving at six a. m., the party expects to arrive at Johnstown at 4:30 p. m. In the group are also music director, Charles Brodie; Evan Vandegrift and Harold James, the latter two each in charge of a bus-load; and eight members of the Cadet Booster Association, mothers of some of the members.

The Cadets will participate in the American Legion parade at seven o'clock this evening in Johnstown. Tomorrow at 10 a. m., they will be presented by the state commander to the convention as state champions. The Bristol Cadets will also be presented at the Auxiliary convention. On Friday evening the Cadets have been invited to give an exhibition drill when the adult corps compete in Point Stadium. A crowd of from 15,000 to 20,000 is expected to witness this affair.

The main parade of interest to the local lads will occur Saturday at two p. m., when the junior corps will parade in competition for the state championship, with Bristol defending its title. The localities will leave Johnstown for the return trip to Bristol, Sunday at nine a. m.

Stiffer competition is expected this year, it being generally expected that the 16 corps competing last year will be added to this year.

Jacob C. Schmidt, Jr., commander of the Bristol Cadets, and I. Johnston Hetherington, who are delegates from Bracken Post to the American Legion convention, have already left for Johnstown. The alternates named are William Griffiths and William S. Riley.

The Cadets are to be housed in St. Mary's Episcopal Parish House, with Commander and Mrs. Schmidt, and the women who accompanied the party being accommodated across the street.

SLIGHTLY HURT

Miss Edna R. Mace, Yardley R. D. 1, sustained slight injury to her nose when the automobile she was operating, and one driven by Bernard J. Dennen, 257 Jackson street, collided at the intersection of route 113 and Emille Road, Tuesday afternoon. Miss Mace was treated at a nearby residence, and returned home. Patrolman Jones, South Langhorne barracks of the state highway patrol, investigated.

TAXES CUT PAYROLLS

(New York American, August 5, 1936)

Taxes create unemployment in industry, in the exact proportion that they exhaust the EMPLOYING RESOURCES of industry.

Every employer of labor has two payrolls to meet. One payroll goes to the men who work for him.

The other goes to the tax collector.

The money paid in taxes NEVER REACHES THE PAY ENVELOPES of the workers already on the payroll, and it cannot be used to add MORE WORKERS to the payroll.

No policy of government could go farther toward CREATING EMPLOYMENT in private industry than a policy taking the tax collector OFF THE BACK OF THE EMPLOYER.

Legionnaires In Convention

Johnstown, Aug. 20—As leaders conferred in preparation for the opening of the 18th annual convention of the State Pennsylvania Department, American Legion, thousands of legionnaires converged on this flag-bedecked city today from every corner in the state.

Delegations from Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, the largest to attend the convention, arrived during the night, and the Lancaster and Greensburg Legion arrived in motorized buses, resembling the French bus cars used in the World War. It was from this that the Legion "40 'n' 8" organization got its name.

United States Senator James J. Davis was scheduled to make the opening address in the place of Governor Earle, confined to bed with 26 hornet stings, suffered while vacationing last week. The possibility stands that the chief executive might be successfully recovered to address the closing session of the convention, leaders said.

Earle and Secretary Got Their Wires Crossed

HARRISBURG, Aug. 20—When Republican State Chairman M. Harvey Governor Earle's admission that the State should not be called upon to bear the $1100 cost of his recent political broadcast in Philadelphia, Mr. Taylor said:

"The Governor and his Private Secretary, Robert H. Myers, seem to have got their wires crossed. Myers defends the right of his Chief to make the taxpayers pay for this political radio speech, while the Governor confesses that the charge is unwarranted."

"Taxpayers will be glad to note that Mr. Earle sees fit to praise Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin for his vigilance in stopping payment of this bill."

"Notwithstanding the Governor's belated admission of personal responsibility for the payment of this debt, had there not been a Republican Auditor General at the Capitol, the people would have been called upon to foot the bill—and doubtless many others like it."

LAD OF 16 DROWNS; FRIEND NARROWLY ESCAPES WATERS

Alfred Burton, Jr., Germantown, Loses Life at Eddington, Yesterday

BECAME EXHAUSTED

Grapple for More Than Three Hours for Body; Had Planned Boat Ride

A lad of 16 years was drowned in the Delaware River at Eddington yesterday, and one of his pals endeavoring to aid him, narrowly escaped the same fate.

The victim:

Alfred Burton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Burton, 631 W. Johnson street, Germantown.

The drowning occurred shortly after 3:30, and the body was not recovered until 6:55 p. m.

The youth met his death a short distance off shore where the Dunks Ferry Road meets the Delaware River. A party of six young men had gone to the river-front, anticipating a ride in a boat owned by a group of Seniors.

The boat was anchored some distance off-shore, and Burton, closely followed by Hansford Rutledge, also of Germantown, commenced wading toward the craft. Upon reaching deeper water young Burton commenced swimming. Rutledge tells of how Burton slipped under the water, and as he came up Rutledge grasped him, valiantly endeavoring to hold the exhausted lad afloat. "For about five minutes I held him, and I was calling for help. Soon both of us went under, and when I came up I didn't have him," is the tragic story of Rutledge.

A third member of the party, George Lapworth, Germantown, hearing the cries for help, swam toward the boat in an effort to aid. These two young men were able to make the boat in safety, by the time men and women along the beach reached them.

The other three young men in the party were: Richard Gundrum, James McGuckin, and Raymond Long. The party states that Burton could swim a trifle. Some of the others were familiar with the Delaware at that point.

Hurriedly summoned to the spot the Bucks County Rescue Squad, some members of Croydon Fire Company, and other residents of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey shores in that vicinity, aided in the grappling. Books were sent to the scene by the rescue squad, the Croydon Fire Company, the Knights of Columbus County Club, and Bristol borough. Constable Joseph Seaders of Bristol Township, directed the work. The body was recovered at 6:55, and removed to the home of the boy's parents. The number of the drowned lad arrived at the beach early during the evening.

The body was found about 300 feet off-shore by Edward Bentliff and William Marshall, of Beverly, N. J.

Deputy coroner, Dr. James Lawler, Bristol, issued a certificate, stating death was due to exhaustion.

Young Burton, in addition to his parents, is survived by two older sisters, Alberta and Elizabeth. Last term he attended the Roosevelt Junior High School, Germantown, and planned to attend the Germantown high school as a sophomore, next month.

Life-Saving Course Given at Morrisville

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 20—The Red Cross life saving course which will be given by the Morrisville Branch of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross in co-operation with the Penna. Manor Lake Swimming Association, will be conducted at the Penna. Manor Lake daily from two to four p. m. and from 6:30 to eight p. m. during the week of August 17 to 24.

The course of instruction, which will include juniors and seniors, will contain instructions on rescuing a drowning person and also the application of artificial respiration. Juniors will be instructed during the afternoon session and the adults will be instructed in the early evening session.

The program, which is under the guidance of the first aid and life saving committee of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross, will be under the direction of George Burton, assistant of the Red Cross life saving service.

The junior class will include persons from 12 to 16 years of age, the senior group from 17 to 19 years of age, and the examiners from 20 years and up. Upon successful completion of the course by a Red Cross certificate will be awarded. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. J. E. Erwin, chairman of the Morrisville Red Cross.

POPULATION GROWTH

With rare exceptions, American communities large and small aspire for larger population and greater territorial size. Among cities and towns and even hamlets of nearly equal size there exists keen competition, and census figures are as eagerly awaited as the umpire's decision in a ball game.

There are advantages in urban bigness. The more people the more business, and the more business the greater prosperity for all. The larger the city the greater its cultural advantages and the more numerous and varied its sources of amusement and recreation. For many of the best things in life the people of the smaller communities must go to the big cities.

But there is also a price to pay for the distinction of urban bigness. As a city grows in size and population its people become more and more like so many scurrying ants in a disturbed ant hill. Homes become tenements. The few blocks between home and place of employment become miles. Privacy vanishes, the cost of living keeps pace with the growth of population, and even the pure air and quiet are taken away.

As they build higher and wider let the towns and cities heed these words of an official of the United States Chamber of Commerce:

"While the existence of a town or city depends upon business, the existence is not justified unless the profits of business make life in that town constantly more and more worth living."

It is as important to the community to guard against the disadvantages of bigness as it is to strive for bigness, and the place that grows wisely needs not regret its greater size.

YOUNGER WOMEN

An authority on hygiene and physical development is author of the statement that women are younger today at 40 than ever and, at all ages, are healthier than the women of preceding generations.

A generation ago the average woman of 40 was an old lady who wore a shawl across her shoulders while she sat by the fire and crocheted. She was well past the prime of life and "all tired out."

Today the woman of 40 looks 30, plays golf and tennis and drives an automobile during the day and dances or plays cards, far into the night, and then is down first to breakfast in the morning fresh and ready for another day which would have been a killing pace in grandmother's day.

One of the causes of this extraordinary healthfulness of the modern woman is the development of her clothing. She no longer wraps herself up like an Egyptian mummy or loads herself down with pounds of heavy and superfluous raiment.

But hasn't woman's attitude toward herself contributed much to her transformation? Though a woman of seven she can now dance, swim, go in for the sports and driving, and dress youthfully without fear of social ostracism. No longer is the "respectable" woman's condition in life just two degrees removed from the absolute imprisonment of the harem.

The great system of motor highways which Italy proposes for Ethiopia raises a natural query: What is the Latin equivalent for barbecued spareribs?

"GLITTERING GIRL"

by MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XIV

During Sunday morning service on Fifth Avenue, Vernon's mind wandered incessantly. But her thoughts soared with the heavenly music. The choir boys' voices sounded like angels to her.

Love! It had come to her at last. Do as she would, she couldn't for a moment forget Terry Shannon's kisses.

Thrillingly queer how life had changed for her! Plain little Maggie Tyson from the Texas ranch had shed her chrysalis and emerged into the sunshine of Society as a glittering butterfly!

Brilliant Autumn sunlight flooded the steps of the cathedral when the service was over. A tang was in the air. Mrs. Tyson, her plump and work-worn hands in a mink muff, to match her cape, wobbled along on her spiked heels beside her child, for all the world like a small pouter pigeon.

"Tell me about the party last night," she commenced immediately, the beautiful words of the service fading from her mind as she eyed her daughter sharply.

The latter colored. Terry? How to tell her mother of his advent at the party?

"I met heaps of people. One of them—a Mrs. de Bray—wanted very much to come and call on you, Mother."

"Humph! Glad there's someone remembers a girl has parents. I must say Nan hasn't much sense of what's fitting." She gave the violet toque an injured push. It was rather top-heavy, and apt to slip forward from its moorings. "Tell me about the men. Who all did you dance with?"

"Prince Ivan Karloff was one," replied Vernon. A title should placate any feelings of injury on her part at having been left behind. She added: "He's quite nice, and fairly young. He's of the old Russian nobility."

"And without a penny to his name, of course? He's here in New York hearse-hunting, I'll wager!"

"Oh, he didn't seem like that. He has beautiful manners."

"His stock-in-trade! Who introduced him to you?"

"Mrs. de Bray. She's quite nice to call on you, Mother."

"Humph! Something up her sleeve? They'll be after us like cats after the cream—or wasps after the honey."

"Nonsense, darling. What ails you?"

"I'm a little bilious after the long train-trip, I guess. And the unpacking and getting settled in was tiring."

Vernon's heart smote her. She had been inconsiderate, leaving her mother so long alone yesterday. She couldn't help wondering—and was angry with herself for the disloyal thought—how her mother would fit in with the people on Park Avenue?

Would they understand that beneath her brusque speech and sometimes queer manners lay real kindness of heart?

They found Nan Rushington reaching full length upon the sofa in the drawing room on their return, a cigarette dangling from her fingers, entertaining "Uncle Jake."

"Your devotions safely over? Hope you put up a prayer of forgiveness for your grand flirtation last night with Prince Karloff, Vernon?" Say, Aunt Sadie, what about you giving me a stiff commission when your beautiful chee-ild becomes a Princess?" Nan giggled, winking.

Mrs. Tyson tech-ed this, but was not at all annoyed. Tremendously ambitious was she for Vernon.

"Maybe we'll bring some of the bunch back with us for a cup of tea or something stronger," remarked Nan airily as she and Vernon went off to the Sunday Morning Pajama Breakfast Club.

The Sunday Morning Pajama

Breakfast Club seemed to Vernon a very queer function!

She felt out of her element at the beginning. It was a most free-and-easy gathering.

What on earth did these men and women want to get into pajamas for, and loaf about on divans, at high noon of this radiant Sunday morning?

If Terry had been here, it would have been different, of course. But she was glad Terry wasn't witnessing this stupid spectacle of which she herself was a part.

Half the people looked as though they hadn't been to bed at all—as though the cat had brought them in with the milk in the morning.

She felt rather silly in the loose blue velvet pajamas Nan had dug out for her. They needed living up to—Vernon didn't have the key to what was going on, here, hither and yonder.

Everyone seemed to move in couples. Every man seemed to have his own particular girl. Nan was out in the kitchen, helping to cook eggs and bacon. She had acquired at least three beaux in the process. Amidst the not unpleasant odor of cooking, Vernon could hear her delighted squeals.

No one seemed to have any manners in the studio. Manners and pajama breakfasts didn't go together, it seemed.

A poet came to talk to her, and read her some execrable verses. Everyone was making so much noise that Vernon could hardly hear him.

A long, eel-like girl with the unromantic name of Jimima undulated into the studio. The poet sprang to his feet and rushed at her. They kissed ecstatically. Vernon went out into the kitchen.

Hungry, she salvaged a plate of bacon and eggs for herself, and a cup of coffee. That felt good. Presently she would slip off home, she decided.

Suppose Terry telephoned, and she wasn't there to get it? Suppose he called in person at the hotel, and she missed him? That was unthinkable.

Wonderful to be out motoring with him in the brilliant Autumn countryside, in that long, low-slung car of his.

She consumed another piece of toast, another cup of coffee, then went back to the studio.

"My dear, the party's positively stupid!" chirped a high-pitched man's voice in her ear. "Let's brighten up that little corner yonder, and communique. Willt thou with me thither?"

He was a queer-looking young man, thought Vernon. But any port in a storm. She felt solitary. She seated herself gingerly on the divan whose springs were sadly broken, and permitted him to entertain her in his own quaint fashion.

Extremely willowy in figure, in pajamas of deep purple, his small waist was girdled by a golden cord with heavy tassels. He had a very small face atop a long neck in which Adam's Apple was prominent. His eyes were watery blue—red-rimmed—and his tiny mouth was topped by an infinitesimal mustache.

Vernon thought whimsically: "He doesn't talk. He squeaks."

Small his mouth might be, but the tongue inside it was exceptionally long. He was the greatest gossip she had encountered.

"My dear, in confidence, the behavior of the debutantes this year is too simply appalling! Why! even the barnyard fowls have better manners!" He cocked his little head on one side, and drew down his upper lip. "I assure you I give them a wide berth. I literally flee from them."

"That's surely their misfortune," Vernon remarked with a twinkle.

"My dear, do listen to Nan Rushington laugh just now. It's positively like the screech of a hyena."

"She's a nice girl. She's my cousin, you know."

"How perfectly appalling for you!"

"Not at all. I like Nan. She's good-hearted."

"My dear, how can you say such a thing, when she's doing everything possible to break up poor Myrtle Sarraill's marriage?"

"I don't believe it."

"Your eyes, my dear—your beautiful, beautiful eyes—do use them. I beg of you. Conceded that Nan's no better or worse than the others, they've no more—or—standards shall we say?—than a polecat. . . . those young girls of today." Twirling at the ends of his small mustache, he rolled his eyes upward as though calling on heaven to witness him.

Vernon felt that she could willingly have slapped him.

Suddenly he nudged her violently. "Look—Sugar—and Nan—just as I said—"

It was too true. Nan made a dramatic entrance clinging with both hands to the arm of Sugar, his right arm round her waist.

"Doesn't he look divine? I've just dressed him in Bobby's newest one from London," she called out. "Isn't he the handsome thing?"

Someone chanted aptly: "Why Did I Buy Those Blue Pajamas Before the Big Affair Begun?"

This brought rounds of sarcastic applause. Presently Nan disappeared with Sugar.

"Honey-mooning!" This from the hateful young man with the feminine voice.

Vernon rose. She would go home. But the girl called Jimima, and her poet-friend, swept her into a crazy can-can game called "Michigan."

Then some rather nice girls arrived, with escorts. Vernon was glad to meet them, in view of her forthcoming party.

What was it Mrs. de Bray had insisted on last night? Something to the effect that the mothers of eligible sons thought a great deal of a girl being correctly "presented" to Society—that girls must have an adequate background.

Suddenly it came to her that Terry had never mentioned his parents to her, beyond that joke about being "Shanty Irish."

His young sister was in Spence School. Could it be that he was ashamed of introducing the Tyson family to his own people of better background?

The thought was like a cold hand on her happy remembrance of last night's party at the Snydams'.

Prince Karloff, accompanied by Mrs. de Bray, who was looking very smart in a tailored suit of tobacco brown, first-arrived at the Pajama Breakfast Club around four in the afternoon, that Sunday.

They frankly declined to change into "suitable" garb! They announced their intention of only remaining for a few minutes.

"I just thought you'd be here," rushed Mrs. de Bray to Vernon, "I popped in on the off chance. I thought it would be such a good opportunity to go back with you and visit your mother!"

What could Vernon do but agree with her? She was annoyed with Nan, and this would afford a good excuse to get away.

Nan was nowhere visible. Vernon went up to the balcony that ran around two sides of the studio. Two out of the three rooms there were locked.

Still more annoyed with Nan, she was all the readier to bring cordial Mrs. de Bray and beautifully-mannered Prince Karloff back to her parents at the Splendide.

They talked there in no time. Passing through the long lobby, Vernon couldn't help glancing about . . . wondering if Terry were here with Mr. Brandeis.

No sign of him at all. They ascended to the tower.

SUNDAY DINNER

Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

HOME-GROWN fruits and vegetables offer the outstanding values of the week. Corn, tomatoes, squash, eggplant, green and lima beans are plentiful and moderate in price. Both white and sweet potatoes are now inexpensive.

Cheese is higher at retail but slight slumps in the wholesale butter and egg market mean temporarily steady retail prices for these products. Beef continues to be the best meat value though chunks of lamb are lower. Fresh and smoked pork and veal continue high. Fish is somewhat more plentiful.

Oranges are lower. Apples, Bartlett pears, plums and peaches are moderate in price. Cantaloupes are cheap and watermelons lower.

Here are three menus planned for different budget levels.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages, with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills. Advertisement.

GOV. LANDON'S GREAT-AUNT RECALLS HER "LITTLE-BOY" WHO USED TO GO FISHING

Remembers GOP Choice As Earnest Lad, Devoted To Church and Hard Worker

DETROIT, Aug. 20.—(INS).—To Mrs. Emma Jane Dumas Lininger, 83-year-old, great-aunt of the Republican Presidential nominee, Alfred M. Landon, is still just "my little boy who used to go fishing with me."

Mrs. Lininger, here on a visit to her granddaughter, revealed intimate details of the early life of the Kansas governor, whom she confidentially expects will be the next President.

The old lady, still hearty and bubbling over with enthusiasm despite her advanced age, recalled best of all the time when Landon was a child of 12 or 13 and the two of them would go fishing in the river at Greenville, Pa., and in Conneaut Lake, nearby.

"Alfred (he was always 'Alfred' to the family) and I are the fishermen in our family," she remarked. "We'd get up very early and I'd pack a lunch, sandwiches and fruit, and Al-fred's grandmother (Mrs. Lininger's sister) would tell us to bring back enough fish for dinner.

"I rowed the boat, Alfred handled the anchor.

"What a fine time we had! Then we'd start. Each of us had our pet place in the lake or along the river to fish. And Alfred was a good arguer. I used to tell him he should be a lawyer. And we'd come back with the fish."

Mrs. Lininger remembered Landon as a "good boy" and a "very earnest" one. "He loved to read and we had some great arguments out there on the lake about everything."

To Mrs. Lininger, Landon as a youth was a "real boy." She recalled his great fondness—then—for potato chips.

"Alfred used to love them," she said, "and he would beg me to make a batch of them. And like all boys he loved to get hold of the frosting dish after I baked a cake."

"Alfred was the same as a youth as he is today," said Mrs. Lininger, "sincere, devoted to his church, and a hard worker.

"I remember so well that his father was very active for President Theodore Roosevelt. The great T. R. was Alfred's hero as a young man and I remember once his father took Alfred to a Republican rally at Kansas City where Roosevelt was speaking."

Mrs. Lininger revealed that the Governor had invited her to attend his second inauguration as governor last January, an event that she referred to as "the great experience of my life."

"When he wrote and asked me to come to Topeka he said, 'It's in January, Aunt Em, and that means no fishing, but we'll try and make up for that.'"

"That month showed me what a big man my boy had become. I knew it before, but after that visit I knew he was only beginning his career."

"Now I know that some day I will visit my boy in the White House. He has made me very happy and very proud."

Mrs. Lininger revealed some of the things the two of them did while she was with the Landons at the Executive House in Topeka. One of them was going to church.

"Every Sunday I was in Topeka," said Mrs. Lininger, "Alfred and I went to church. Sunday was one day Alfred wouldn't talk politics. He was just Mr. Landon on Sundays. He spent that day with the children and Theo (Mrs. Landon) and me."

Mrs. Lininger told how the Governor, Mrs. Landon, and herself stole away the night after inauguration for a second term as governor and went to the movies.

"There was a Will Rogers picture playing, 'The County Chairman,' and Alfred wanted to see it because it was about politics. The three of us went, just sat in the back row. There was no fanfare or anything. And we had a good time."

Mrs. Lininger recalled that Landon's nurse, Mrs. Mary Barid, now 85 of West Middlesex, Pa., was still living. Landon, she said, sent her 85 American Beauty roses on her last birthday.

Landon's great-aunt has complete faith that her "boy" will make a fine President.

"It will make no difference," she said, "when Alfred is in the White House. He's still my little boy who went fishing with me. He'll make a fine President. He loves his country and the people in it. He's a great worker."

She paused and then said: "It is a great experience for an old aunt to see her boy come so far. I knew he would succeed. But I never dreamed then he would be President of the United States some day."

AN ATLANTIC LUBRICATION EXPERT, direct from Atlantic Headquarters, will be at my station August 20th, 21st and 22nd. He will demonstrate the approved method of lubricating your particular make and model of automobile, precisely as its manufacturer recommends. And, of course, he'll use the same lubricants which took the famous Toms River Test Cars 100,000 miles apiece, WITHOUT lubricated engine-part repairs, and WITHOUT a single rear axle or transmission failure.

You are cordially invited to bring in your automobile for a demonstration. You'll be amazed at its smoother, more economical performance. All cars lubricated for $1.

"I'm almost packed now and I can hardly wait to get started. It certainly is a long time between vacations, isn't it?"

"Oh yes, I'm going to drive up... that's part of the fun I think."

"What?"

"Yes, I attended to my insurance long ago. It certainly is a big relief to know that I can go away and yet have my family protected in case anything should happen to me."

outstanding victor in the afternoon's dashes. He placed first in the senior 25-yard backstroke event, winning by more than 15 feet from his nearest competitor, Orazi, also from Bristol. Dougherty was also on the winning senior relay team and he handily won the senior 25-yard breaststroke race.

The Perkins team, coached by M. Robinson, displayed its best form in the underwater races, placing first and second in the senior event and first in the junior event. The junior relay race was also won by the Perkins quartet.

The races got off to a fine start for the Bristol team when the first three places were captured by Bristol boys in both the senior and junior 100-yard dashes.

Cassell was the only double first-place winner for the visitor, winning both the junior 25-yard dash and the junior 25-yard backstroke event.

But Coach DeRis's boys seemed a little more familiar with the water here. The Perkins boys seemed unfamiliar with the tide which played a part in the races. All races were run with the tide.

The events and winners were as follows:

Senior 100 yards: 1, F. Russo; 2, Lake; 3, Orazi.

Junior 100 yards: 1, Lynn; 2, Sac; 3, Antonelli.

Senior 25 yards: 1, E. Mofo; 2, Jones (Perkasie); 3, Schieble (Perkasie).

Junior 25 yards: 1, Cassell (Perkasie); 2, Vancott (Perkasie); 3, Nicolls.

Senior backstroke, 25 yards: 1, Dougherty; 2, Orazi; 3, Terry (Perkasie).

Junior backstroke, 25 yards: 1, Cassell (Perkasie); 2, Moore; 3, Sapallo.

Senior 50 yards: 1, Hunsicker (Perkasie); 2, Chialla; 3, Lechtuss (Perkasie).

Junior 50 yards: 1, Wall (Perkasie); 2, Singer; 3, Hunsicker (Perkasie).

Senior breast, 25 yards: 1, Dougherty; 2, Ludwig; 3, McElroy.

Junior breast, 25 yards: 1, Russo; 2, LaPolia; 3, Conway (Perkasie).

Senior underwater: 1, Crammer (Perkasie); 2, Jones (Perkasie); 3, E. Mofo.

Junior underwater: 1, Conway (Perkasie); 2, McElroy; 3, Conrad.

Senior relay won by Bristol; junior relay won by Perkins.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD — Superstitious

Lily Pons thinks 13 is her lucky number and was so insistent to R-K-O officials that the studio

rushed through its final preparations and immediately began the filming of her picture on August 13.

The tiny diva

traces the good influence of the number back to her birth-date,

April 13. When flying, she always gets seat 13, and 13 was the number of her box at the Hollywood

Bowl. She even points triump-phantly to the fact that 26,413 seats were sold to her concert the other night.

Hollywood is just tumbling to how seriously George Raft is taking his job as parent by proxy.

The payoff was when the star failed to appear in his customary seat at the fights last Friday night. Instead, he took Virginia

Pine's six-year-old daughter, Marie, to a riding academy and later to the amusement zone of the Ocean

Park pier.

The latest star to cry out against the telephone pests is

Clark Gable. In one month, complaints Clark, he changed his number 10 times—so often, in fact, that he couldn't remember it himself.

Most of the callers are salesmen.

And when they are not bothering him, other people are. He gets as many as 50 collect telegrams a month begging one thing or another. And the other night, a man gained entrance disguised as a messenger.

He wanted to sell the star a film story.

actress in Hollywood is Marsha

Hunt, who has a clause in her

Paramount contract that she will not be compelled to undrape her legs in any picture, not even a publicity still. Gail Patrick is another who refuses to pose for bathing suit photos. Neither one of these gals has anything to be ashamed of either.

What did they do with their bonus? John Boles, whose paycheck for "Craig's Wife" is sufficient to keep the wolf away from the door, sent his to his mother,

Mrs. John Love Boles, of Tex-arkana, Tex. It was a tidy sum for the star spent three years with the A. E. F. in Belgium, France and Germany.

Writing her thanks, Mrs. Boles expressed the wish that she may never get another gift of the kind.

"Because," she said, "I hope you never have to go to war again."

SANDWICHES FOR ALL OCCASIONS

Dear Friends:
Picnics, buffets, and lunches all seem to call for a sandwich of some kind. Men and children like whole-some, thick sandwiches; women choose tiny, thin ones for parties and suppers. Each one has its place and I am happy to pass on to you recipes that will please all.

Sardine Sandwiches
One-half cup or small can of sardines, one-fourth cup soft butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon lemon juice, two hard cooked eggs, one-half cup highly seasoned salad dressing, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, one-eighth teaspoon cayenne pepper.
Blend sardines with butter, grated egg and seasonings. Spread between slices of buttered rye bread. Grated onion may be added to the sardine mixture if desired.

Bermuda Sandwich
One large cucumber, one cup celery, one-half cup chopped onion, one green pepper, six stuffed olives, one-fourth cup French Dressing.
Peel and chop the cucumber fine. Place in a strainer so that liquid will drain off. Chop the celery, onion, green pepper and olives fine. Combine all ingredients and pour on the French Dressing. Allow to stand one hour and drain off the liquid. Blend with mayonnaise and spread between slices of buttered bread. This sandwich is especially good with a Dutch supper.

Fruit Sandwich
One cup dates, chopped; one-fourth cup preserved ginger, one-fourth cup pecans, chopped.
Place chopped dates and ginger in a sauce pan, moisten with liquid from the ginger or water. Gently cook to a paste. Add nuts and spread between thin slices of bread. Banana bread is excellent with this filling.

Toasted Cheese Sandwich
One-half pound mellow American cheese, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one egg, well-beaten, one-fourth teaspoon dry mustard, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, twelve slices bacon, twelve slices bread, twelve slices tomato.
Cream the cheese, add the egg and seasonings and spread on the bread. Cover each with a slice of tomato, top with bacon. Bake in a quick oven at 450 degrees F. until bacon is brown. Serve at once. This sandwich with a green salad makes a delightful luncheon dish.

Cucumber Sandwiches
Cut rounds from thin slices of wheat bread and spread with creamed butter. Pare, slice and cover with ice water the cucumbers that are to be used. Just before serving, pour off water and dry cucumbers in a cloth. Cover with French Dressing that is highly seasoned with lemon juice and onion. Place a slice of cucumber between bread and serve at once. Garnish with radish roses and serve with a fish salad.

Boston Sandwich
Butter slices of Boston brown bread. Place a leaf of lettuce on one slice of bread. On this place a spoon of cold Bernaise sauce, next a tablespoon of cold, baked beans, lettuce again, and top with brown bread. Garnish with pickled onions.

Bernaise Sauce
Place in a saucepan two tablespoons fine chopped green pepper, two tablespoons chopped onion and ¼ cup mild vinegar. Place over low heat and slowly cook until moisture has all evaporated. Remove from heat and add two tablespoons of butter and the beaten yolks of three eggs. Place again over very low heat or in a double boiler and slowly cook until thickened, adding four tablespoons of butter, one tablespoon at a time as it melts and is blended in. Season with salt and pepper. The sauce may be strained or not as desired.

Cub Sandwich
Four slices of toast, well buttered. Cover bottom slice with crisp lettuce and spread with mayonnaise. Over this place three strips of bacon and a slice of chicken. Cover with a second piece of toast on which place a lettuce leaf, spread with mayonnaise and sliced tomato. Cover with the next slice of toast. Spread with mayonnaise and either chicken or baked ham. Cover with the fourth slice of toast. Cut in half diagonally. Garnish with stuffed olives.

A New French Toast
Spread bread with peanut butter, then dip in egg and milk. Fry in shallow fat and serve with a tart jelly.

Toy-Gun Moll

Lillian Davis, 18 (above), weeps copiously as policeman for confession to a series of hold-ups in Brooklyn with a toy pistol. Police say she shot at them the crimes were instigated by her boy friend, Joseph Regina, who is also under arrest.

The peanut butter may be thinned with milk to make it spread more easily.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the School District of the Township of Falls, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, will receive sealed bids for the purchase of 31 coupon bonds of the denomination of $1000.00 each, aggregating $31,000.00, bearing interest at the rate of 2½%, 3%, 3½%, 3¾%, 4% or 4½% per annum, at the option of the bidder, payable semi-annually. Bids will be received for the entire issue at any of the above rates of interest but no bid combining two different rates of interest will be accepted. Said bonds and the interest thereon will be payable without deduction for any tax or taxes, except succession or inheritance taxes, now or hereafter levied or assessed thereon under any present or future laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, all of which taxes the School District of the Township of Falls assumes and agrees to pay. ## BLACK METEORS AGAIN DEFEAT LANDRETH NINE

In a brief but well-played game the Landreth's Seeds lost to the Black Meteors of Philadelphia last night at Landreth Ball Park 1-0.

The visitors' run came in the sixth, the last inning of the abbreviated contest. Dotson, hitting to right center for two bases, advanced to third when Collins beat out a hit to Malmshury and scored when Bruce muffed Hill's throw in the run down to prevent Collins' stealing.

The "Farmers" threatened to tie the score in their half of the inning. Pitko opened with a smash to right center for three bases but the next three batters failed to hit and he was left there. The Meteors scored two runs in their seventh the first three men hitting for extra bases. Umpire Elmer called the game as it was too dark to continue, the game reverting back to the sixth inning.

The contest was a fast and interesting pitchers' battle while it lasted between Thorpe and Ashby, each pitcher allowing five hits and each having one bad inning. Ashby leading the sacks in the third on two bases on balls and a fielder's choice, with two out the next batter flied out. Landreth's made a real threat in their fourth. Pitko singled to right field. Hill was passed and Broderick sacrificed. Hibbs also worked Thorpe for a walk, loading the sacks. Bruce flied short to Nelson in right and Nelson's accurate peg to the plate doubled up Pitko attempting to score.

Dougherty for the Seeds and Baldwin for the Meteors were the fielding stars.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM SPORT FIELD

NTW YORK, Aug. 20 — (INS) — Pinkie Whitney of the Phillies was in a batting slump. Suddenly he was injured and forced out of the lineup. Before he had completely recovered, injuries to other players made it necessary that he get back in the game. He promptly began hitting around 300 and he's still going strong. . . . Dizzy Dean is not the only overworked pitcher in the majors. . . . Claude Passeau of those same Phils mentioned in the foregoing, in a recent 18-day stretch, pitched in 10 games. . . . He also lost 15 pounds.

When the Yankees finally sew up that pennant beyond all doubt. . . . They can turn and take a bow to a couple of old hurlers, as mentioned before. . . . They've had good hitting all season, to be sure. . . . But the work of Bump Hadley and Blabber Malone remains superb. . . . Aside from Ruffing and Pearson, the Yanks haven't had a starter right straight through who could get in there and hold the opposition. . . . Johnny Broaca appears to be coming around now, but it has taken him a long time to do it. . . . Joe DiMaggio started as the greatest rookie that ever came into the majors and, what's more important, is going to finish the same way. . . . He will windup with a batting average of about .340. . . . Possibly will lead in doubles and triples, with a number of home runs tucked in to boot. His fielding has been excellent. . . . His throwing is spectacular.

Mushky Jackson, major domo of the New York boxing camps, handler of fighters and murderer of every rule of grammar, recently introduced a fighter as being from "Baltimore or Virginia or one of them towns." . . . Mickey Walker spends most of his evenings on the curb outside of his tavern, talking fights. . . . Hanging over his bar in a most prominent spot is a picture of Harry Greb, inscribed, "Harry Greb, Champion." . . . Mickey says the Pittsburgh Windmill was the greatest fighter he ever met. . . . "He could really pitch," says Mickey, remembering one of the most vicious battles New York ever saw. . . . Greb was middleweight champion and Mickey the welter king at the time.

PLAY-OFF TILT SCHEDULED AT HULMEVILLE ON SUNDAY

The opening game of the Delaware River League play-off series between Bordentown, first half champions, and Newtown, second half champs, will take place Sunday afternoon on the Hulmeville diamond. Newtown does not play Sunday baseball and has been using the Hulmeville diamond for its Sabbath Day games.

Fans of this vicinity will be able to see two of the best hurlers in semi-pro ball pitted against each other. Harry Holisclaw, brilliant Newtown twirler, who has won ten straight games in the Delri circuit, will oppose Del Farnsworth, who upset the league in the first half and is noted for his hill prowess throughout North Jersey.

PLAY-OFF, ODD FELLOWS AND ST. ANN'S, TONIGHT

The play-off between the Odd Fellows and the St. Ann's baseball team to break the deadlock of the second half race of the Bristol Twilight League will be played tonight on Landreth's field. Both clubs have won ten and lost two, with the St. Ann's team boasting of a winning streak of ten consecutive contests.

It is most likely that the Odd Fellows' star moundsman, Jake Prael, will toe the slab against the Wood Streeters with either Johnny Dick or Spike Scordia doing the hill chores for the Pioneers. Leo Hibbs will catch for the Odd Fellows with Tony Angelo behind the platter for St. Ann's.

The remainder of the line-ups will be as follows: St. Ann's, Mike DeRisi, Johnny Stallone, Dom Sagolla, Teddie Tosti, Bert Avela, Lefty DiTanna and Eddie Gaffney; Odd Fellows, Freddie Hibbs, George Ritter, Benny Prael, Jimmy Cooper, Larry Davis, Andy Pfaffenrath and Bill Ritter.

Game will start at 6.30 sharp.

FRENCH BEGIN TO REBUILD CUP FORCES

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 — France will inaugurate another campaign for the recovery of the Davis Cup by entering the most promising of the Tri-Colony younger players in the National Tennis Championships in September. The French Tennis Federation has cabled to the United States Lawn Tennis Association that it is sending a team captained by Jacques Brugnon to include B. Destreman, P. Pelizza and Y. Petra, according to an official announcement.

Destreman will probably play in the men's doubles at Boston with Brugnon, and Pelizza and Petra, who are the national doubles junior champions of France, will probably form the second combination. All four players will enter the men's singles at Forest Hills, with Destreman, No. 5 in French singles ranking and junior singles champion for the past two years, leading the list.

The unexpected defeat of France by Yugoslavia in the European Davis Cup play this spring led the French

Slugger From St. Louis

By BURNLEY

Jolting Joseph Medwick, that bad, bad man from St. Louis, via Carteret, N. J., is finally taking his rightful place as the National Loop's most murderous mauler.

Joseph happens to be a natural athlete. He captured enough letters to make up an alphabet while in high school and gave up a brilliant gridiron future to become a professional ball player. This was not so dumb on Joseph's part, since he is sitting on top of the baseball world just now.

Medwick, who is sometimes called Ducky Wucky, but not to his face, is in hot pursuit of the batting championship, but even if he doesn't win this title he is sure to wind up top man in several departments of slugging.

The muscular Card clouter is up around the top in runs batted in, total hits and doubles. Recently he went on one of his periodic hitting sprees and proceeded to smack out ten consecutive safe blows, which equalled the National League record, in case you're interested.

Incidentally, the menacing Master Medwick is not exactly a shrinking violet who hides his light under a bushel. Like Diz Dean and the other playful members of the St. Louis Gas House Gang, Joseph shouts his own praises loudly, and proceeds to make good his boasts.

Federation to decide upon the development of an entirely new Davis Cup squad, and the three mentioned players coming to the United States under the direction of Captain Brugnon, were selected as the most satisfactory material upon which to work.

Rene Lacoste and Henri Cochet, two of the four famous French Muketeers, have been coaching these players regularly and their participation in the United States championship tournaments is part of the development campaign by which France hopes to produce another Davis Cup winning combination just as similar instruction and training brought the Cup to France in 1927 and repulsed all attacks on the trophy for a five-year period.

Of the trio of French tennis hopes Destreman appears at the moment to be the outstanding player. In the French Championships held in May, he reached the quarter-finals of the singles where he was defeated by Baron Von Cramm. In the British Championships at Wimbledon he went to the third round where he lost to Tuckey of Great Britain in a bitterly contested four-set match. One of his outstanding victories of the present season was against Bunny Austin in the annual British vs French team matches, following the French tournament.

Petra and Pelizza have already made their mark in France as one of the most promising doubles teams since the early pairing of Brugnon and Jean Borotra. In the French doubles they reached the quarter-finals where they were defeated by Hughes and Tuckey, Great Britain's Davis Cup doubles team, in a four-set match, the first set of which went to 24 games before the English players won. At Wimbledon the French youngsters were eliminated in the third round by the American players, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, but not until this famous international doubles team was forced to a duce set enroute to victory.

Boy Scout Camp Is Closed For Season

Orazi played a great game in the backfield and could be depended upon to catch any pass within almost any finger reach. When it came to a collegiate center, honors would go to "Jim" Hetherington, and for a flashy tackle "Herb" Pettit, Jr., would bring home "the bacon" for most any team. Gene Nichols was "on his toes" in every play, and Chet Nichols would have made a great showing if he had not had the responsibility of running the event. Scout Executive Livermore played in the backfield with the men from Bristol, and several leaders from Trevose. The staff finally won "the peaches" instead of the traditional watermelon, and Herb Pettit, Sr., celebrated by continuing his ferocious ability to conquer all obstacles by "downing" a quart of ice cream.

Scout Wilbur Albright, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Albright, 232 Walnut street, was recognized with the highest Scout honor at Buccoo of The Scout Citizen. His willing spirit to be helpful, and to do his share was in keeping with his having lived up to his Scout Oath and Law. He was the unanimous choice of the sixth week Buccoo Staff for the honor. With Albright during the Scout Law ceremony were Charles Scheffey (clean), Ralph Scheffey (friendly), William Fry (kind), Lewis Conklin (cheerful), Charles Weik (brave), and Jack Warren (reverent).

Leadership honors were given at the Ceremonial to District Commissioner Herbert A. Pettit as Buccoo Commissioner for the capable following out of his responsibilities. Mr. Pettit was awarded the Buccoo Commissioner Whistle and Lanyard. Appreciation was expressed to Gene Nichols for his return in a leadership capacity with his old troop after having been at Buccoo for a week with Edgely troop. Chester Nichols was recognized for his leadership of Bristol No. 1 during the week by being given the "buff and brown" staff neckerchief. Visitors from the troop leadership over the week-end were Scoutmaster Herbert A. Pettit, Jr., and committeeman James Hetherington.

The health of the troop was of the best. It was a testimonial to the fine work of the chefs, Jack Warren, Wil-

Hand Holds Fate of Big Bout

This left maulie of Jimmy Braddock's is under the close scrutiny of Dr. George Edson of the New York Boxing Commission. Maxie Schmeling (center) hopes the commission will rule the hand okay so the scheduled championship bout in September will go on. Doctors have disagreed over Braddock's claim that his fist is so badly injured that an immediate operation is necessary.

bur Albright, Walter Hardy, Ralph Scheffey, Charles Scheffey, Tony Orazi and Charles Fry. Jim Hetherington was such a good cook over the week-end he gained four pounds in a day and a half. Poundage gained by the troop totaled 63 or an average of two and six-tenths pounds per camper. This is remarkable considering the hillside hiking and the activity program.

Anthony Orazi, Walter Hardy and Charles Fry were honored by being made members of the Order of the Arrow for their unselfish service to their fellow campers, and to the camp. During the entire week, the troop staff of Bristol No. 1 were exceptionally helpful and included the active service of all the following in the leadership of advancement periods, night games, afternoon specialties, and evening events: Herbert A. Petter, Gene Nichols, Gene Nichols, and Tony Orazi, Scout Executive William F. Livermore said: "Bristol No. 1 Scouts made a splendid record for themselves during the sixth week of camp, they having been one of the most co-operative and active troops we have had at Buccoo this season."
